Beyond BMDs and the Censuses

by Linda Yip, APG

The Saskatchewan Genealogical Society and the Moose Jaw Branch are hosting two virtual presentations by Linda Yip. Join us via Zoom. There is no charge but pre-registration is required.

Have you ever been baffled or overwhelmed by newspapers and directories? Other than entering a name, how else do you search? Do you feel like you're missing out on what others seem to be finding? How do you figure out what you need to know before going searching? We're going to talk about directories and newspapers from the basics to combining search techniques for building a case study. She'll show you where to look and where not to bother, and provide a handout of resources for you to take home. These presentations are for you if you're fairly new to genealogy and don't know where to go "next", or if it's been a while since you last looked at directories and newspapers. Linda will also be sharing a trick with us for searching the Saskatchewan Historic Newspapers Online.

About Linda Yip:

Linda is a genealogist, public speaker, storyteller, writer, photographer, and entrepreneur and brings all of her creative skills to her research. She got started in genealogy with her own Chinese ancestry and is now on the Ancestry Board of Canadian Genealogists. Linda has done genealogical research into subjects from Chinese disenfranchisement to Japanese internment and has enjoyed tracking ancestors from British Columbia to Newfoundland, especially in Saskatchewan where she now lives.

Linda is a member of the Saskatchewan and British Columbia genealogical societies, the Seattle Genealogical Society, plus the Chinese Canadian Historical Society. She hosts a monthly Chinese genealogy coffee chat on Zoom with the British Columbia Genealogical Society and runs a private Facebook Group: Genealogy for Asian Canadians, where she tries to bust brick walls in real-time. Linda has done many lectures and presentations and has contributed her articles to several blogs including the Ancestry Canada Blog.
